Aeropodium in Association with GS Events Announces Two Major Events in China

London, UK, January 30, 2010: Aeropodium proudly announces its cooperation with GS Events for two major aviation events in China. Panagiotis Panagopoulos, Founder and Director of Aeropodium, pointed out that "China's fast growing aviation sector presents unparalleled business opportunities and challenges for international companies with an interest in accessing China's market."

The 2010 China (Shanghai) General Aviation Development and Expansion Summit will take place on 14-15 April 2010 and it is supported by the China Aviation Society. General aviation is an important aspect of the civil aviation industry, which is an essential factor in the development of the economy and public services. In pursuit of being a major international aviation player, it is vital that general aviation manufacturing and operations are developed rapidly.

The China Aviation Industry Sourcing Summit & Opening Ceremony of Permanent Bonded Exhibition Pavilion for Aviation Components in Shanghai, Yangshan Bonded Port will be held on 15-16 April 2010. This event is hosted by the Aviation Industry Corporation of China and more than 250 delegates are expected to attend.
