Legal aviation workshop provides high level debate about aircraft leasing and financing

London, UK, November 29, 2013: Aeropodium presents the 13th Legal Aviation Workshop "Legal Aspects of Aircraft Leasing and Financing" to be held on 6th December 2013 in Washington, DC. This event is hosted and sponsored by the law firm Cozen O'Connor.

This roundtable workshop will explore aircraft leasing and financing and the discussions will include an introduction to aircraft leasing, operating leases (Dry), the Cape Town Convention, aircraft, crew, maintenance & insurance (WET) leases, and aviation insurance. The participants will be able to hear about the principles of the Law of Contracts that work together to create an airtight and fully enforceable aircraft finance or lease agreement, learn the ins and outs of the operating lease and how to get the best deal while avoiding the pitfalls, hear about and discuss current trends and the outlook for the future, learn how to protect your interests in aircraft and engine lease and finance agreements, learn how and why "Wet" leases are used by the airlines to meet their operational commitments, hear how these leases work and how to get the best deal, and learn what every lessor or lessee needs to know about adequate insurance coverage.

The presentations will be given by Mark Atwood, Member, Cozen O'Connor, Jamie Baldwin, Lecturer, Author and Consultant on Air Transportation, Adjunct Instructor, Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University, Don Kenny, Senior Vice President, Falcon Insurance Agency, and Thomas J. Whalen, Attorney at Law, Schott Law Associates & Former Member of the US Delegation to the Cape Town Convention and Participant in the Drafting of the Agreement.
